(cont'd from front) Lampasas County Sheriff, Jesus 'Jess' Ramos, a member of his congregation, for peace. As the two talked, Dimas shared his dream to finish his education.

According to Ramos, not finishing high school was Dimas' "biggest regret" in life. Ramos was moved to help Dimas and reached out to Lampasas High principal Joey McQueen for help, hoping they could give Dimas an honorary diploma.

McQueen and his staff found out that through the Texas Education Agency, veterans could apply for an official high school diploma. Dimas fit the requirements of the application and received his diploma almost eight decades after he left school.

Lampasas ISD presented the veteran with a military honors cord and an honors blanket with his name on it. This week Dimas is also celebrating 74 years of marriage with his wife who attended the ceremony on Thursday.
